POLICE

AN AUXILIARY POLICE OFFICER

17th Precinct

- Patrol housing developments, residential, and commercial areas
- Patrol subway entrances and stations
- Maintain order at parades, festivals, street fairs, and other special events
- Patrol houses of worship
- Assist in crime prevention activities
- Perform traffic control at motor vehicle accidents and fire scenes
- Perform various other non-enforcement duties

As part of the auxiliary police training course, candidates are trained in self-defense tactics, CPR and first aid, patrol techniques, the New York State Penal Law, and much more.

The auxiliary program is a great opportunity to get an up-close look at law enforcement. For some, it is a stepping stone to a great career in the NYPD. For others, the auxiliary program provides an opportunity to give back to the community while pursuing other careers. For those continuing their education, some colleges grant credit for training received in the auxiliary program.
